Course #17
Basic to Intermediate Level

After his spectacular performance at the 2009 Texas PPA Convention, photographers wanted more of Martin Grahame-Dunn! So, he has graciously agreed to come to Texas School with an all-new, week-long class. This will be a hands-on and interactive program with instructional and guided photo shoots dealing with the creative process from concept to reality. It is an enlightening insight into the way an experienced commercial and advertising photographer has grafted his skills into the wedding and portrait market.

During the week, you will be exploring the subjects of advanced and dynamic composition and posing, as well as off-camera flash, video and cool running LED lights for power and drama... in essence, the "WOW" factor. Art direction, image enhancement and presentation will also be featured. Martin is also a key evangelist in Europe with Nik Software. He will also cover the effective use of your lens collection from wide angle, zooms and prime lenses and a whole host of other invaluable skills. With a broad range of skills founded in the world of Fashion and Advertising photography, Martin will share with you his experiences that has led to his "special take" on weddings and portraiture in a way that excites clients and gives them the feel of high fashion models with none of the stress! Martin will take his students on a journey that begins with a re-evaluation of the core skills of imaging, examines the construction of images, encourages creativity and design and quite simply offers the opportunity to become the photographer you wish to be.

Martin operated a highly successful studio from a 17th century building in Warwick, England, drawing clients from all over the world to his distinctive and exclusive style. Since August of 2002 he has been almost exclusively teaching and presenting programs for a variety of leading international photographic organizations in more than a dozen countries. In 2010 Martin will celebrate 30 years in the photographic industry.
